

My Color Counting Book

On Monday, I looked for azure.

I found _____ azure things!

On Tuesday, I looked for green.

I found _____ green things!

On Wednesday, I looked for midnight.

I found _____ midnight things!

On Thursday, I looked for orange.

I found _____ orange things!

On Friday, I looked for purple.

I found _____ purple things!

On Saturday, I looked for red.

I found _____ red things!

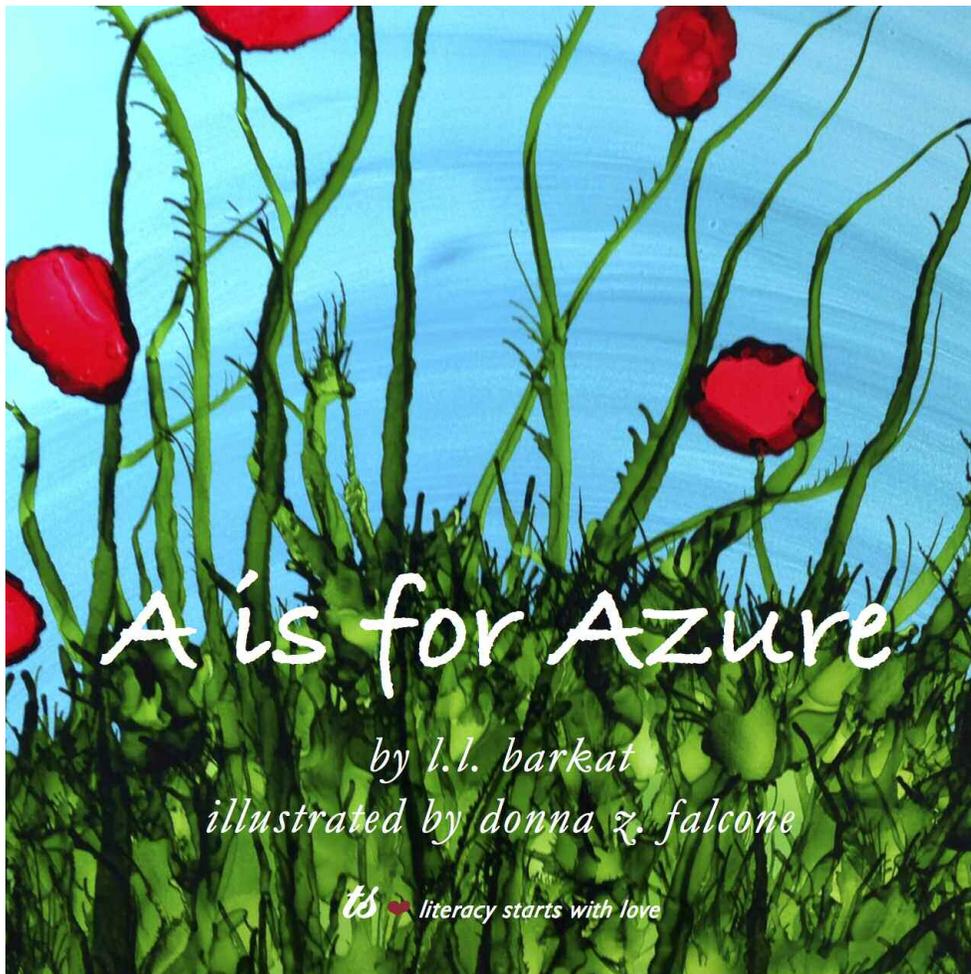

On Sunday, I counted
my whole rainbow of discoveries.

Altogether, I had found _____ colorful things!

How to Use Your Color Counting Book

1. Print the pages.
2. Each day, go on a color walk and look for things that are that day's color. Or, do a color treasure hunt at home or at school.
3. Each day, write or draw what you find—in the space provided on the “I Found” pages. When you're done with your color search, note the total number of items you found. Write the number on the blank line on the “I Found” pages.
4. At the end of the week add up all the colorful things you found!

Art for this color counting book is reproduced from A Is for Azure: The Alphabet in Colors, by L.L. Barkat, Illustrated by Donna Z. Falcone

For more A Is for Azure companion materials, visit tweetspeakpoetry.com/literacyextras